The Worship Leader's

Worship Journal

Keeping a "Worship Journal" may seem "unspiritual" to some. However, this is just as important to a worship leader as would be in keeping a personal, daily journal. It allows you to take a look at what took place and learn from the experience, which then allows you to grow and become better prepared for what lies ahead. It is also a valuable asset because it allows you to have a record to see how you have progressed over a period of time.

It also, becomes a written record of what the Lord has spoken to you during those times of intimacy in the corporate gatherings and many times bring them back to your remembrance to encourage, edify and comfort.

The following is simply a suggestion and point of reference. Please, feel free to use and make whatever changes you need to make that would work better for you.
